

Government Grant Money Will Increase Reach for Telehealth

DGI can customize your solution

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) is offering substantial grants to address the upfront telemedicine technology investment, and telehealth infrastructure costs have decreased dramatically, with affordable hardware and solutions like Zoom for Healthcare and DGI IONTelehealth.

- ① HIPAA-compliant video conferencing like Zoom can ensure client information is kept private.
- ① New “cart” solutions are available at a fraction of previous hardware.
- ① Support from established partners like DGI can help it to be business as usual for your clinicians, while increasing revenue and opportunities.
